UP FOR AN ADVENTURE

For many students, choosing Dordt requires a sense of adventure. For the nearly 50 percent of students from 500 miles away or further, Dordt is far from home, and they know few people. They must trust God in their college decision and be willing to take a risk to come here. Take the four 2019 graduates on the cover, for example. They hail from South Dakota, Colorado, and Central Iowa. They met and became friends at Dordt—studying, having fun, and experiencing life together. On May 10, they left campus as graduates, on to the next adventure that God has in store for them. They take with them lifelong friendships and a faith that has encouraged them to take risks both now and in the future.

This issue includes many stories of people who stepped outside of their comfort zones to follow God's leading: the 2019 graduates who pushed themselves to make a difference during their Dordt years, one senior who went after a Christian hip-hop record deal, a group of computer scientists who ended up at Johns Hopkins Applied Physics Lab, and a blind woman who moved from Michigan to Iowa to get her education.

These stories and others reflect how, through risks and a sense of adventure, Dordt graduates follow God's leading throughout all stages of life.

HERE'S LOOKING AT YOU, KID

With goats, chickens, pigs, and more, Ag Day had plenty of animals for students to pet and, in some cases, cuddle. Sponsored by the Ag Club, Ag Day featured demonstrations that taught Dordt students and the broader community about agriculture.
